Gov. John Hammill, of Iowa,
Warns Colleagues Of

MUST HAVE RELIEF

Believes Farmers Will Wreak
Havoc In All Parties

By George R. Holmes
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent
MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich., July 25.—The controversial issue of farm relief, which already has caused a partial split in both major parties, injected itself today into the annual conference of governors with such violence as to make certain its being one of the dominant political issues in the 1928 presidential campaign.

The chief executives of two dozen states had hardly settled in their seats today for their annual conference before they were regaled with a ringing speech from Gov. John Hammill (R) of Iowa in which he warned his conservative colleagues from the East that either the farmers of the country are going to obtain relief or they are going to wreak havoc with political party lines.

Addressing directly those governors representing populous industrial states of the East that profit by a high protective tariff, the Iowa insurgent said:

"In my part of the country the people have been counted on as supporters of the protective tariff. I can sum up the present tariff attitude in the statement that we want a method through which tariff schedules can be made effective as applied to our main cash crops. The western farmers in the future will study the tariff as they never have done in the past and will exert their influence in the direction which they determine to be for their best interests regardless of their past political and economic affiliations."

It is useless, Gov. Hammill declared, for eastern capitalists and economists to give lofty advice to western agriculturalists to shift the problem. In substantiation, he cited the experience of the South in going in for hog production. It helped stabilize the cotton situation, but it wreaked havoc with the western hog industry.

"We feel that the program we have supported (the McNary-Haugen Bill) is the only constructive one yet advanced; we believe it to be the only economically sound one yet proposed," concluded Gov. Hammill.

Evidence that Hammill spoke not for Iowa alone was furnished promptly by Gov. Adam McMillen, (R) of Nebraska, who declared that the subject was greater than "any political organization or any individual."

The blunt speeches of the western governors furnished the high light of the opening session of the governors' conference—a gathering which brought together two dozen state executives for round table discussion of their mutual problems, states in every part of the country from Maine to Florida, and from Pennsylvania to Utah, were represented.

This year's program of the governors skirted entirely the dangerous subject of prohibition.

Flood control, in which southeastern and Mississippi River states are interested virtually, and merchant marine, in which the seaboard and Great Lakes states are interested, with farm relief comprises the program at the session.

The governors were welcomed to Michigan today by Gov. Green. He touched briefly on the subject of taxation in his welcoming address. He declared the governors could well give some thought to the question of whether the general property tax, as at present constituted, had not outlived its usefulness and efficiency.

Gov. Ralph O. Brewster, of Maine, chairman of the conference, made a plea for western support for a merchant marine. He declared the existence of a self-supporting American merchant marine indispensable to national welfare, and dilated upon the economic and national defense folly of depending upon foreign shipping.

Among the governors here for the conference are:

Fred W. Green, of Michigan; Bibb Graves, of Alabama; John E. Martineau, of Arkansas; John S. Trumbull, of Connecticut; Robert P. Robinson, of Delaware; John W. Martin, of Florida; Ed. Jackson, of Indiana; John Hammill, of Iowa; Ben S. Paulsen, of Kansas; Ralph O. Brewster, of Maine; Albert O. Ritchie, of Maryland; Adam McMullen, Nebraska; Huntley N. Spaulding, of New Hampshire; John S. Fisher, of Pennsylvania; L. E. Gov. Norman S. Case, of Rhode Island; John G. Richards, of South Carolina; George Derr, of Utah; John E. Weeks, of Vermont; Frank C. Emerson, of Wyoming; Len Small, of Illinois; ex-Gov. Cary Hardee, of Florida; and John O. Hall, representing Gov. Fuller of Massachusetts.

Tennis Club Completes
Courts At Rohm & Haas

The tennis tournament club connected with Rohm & Haas has furnished and built the court outside of the plant grounds.

The handicap round has been played and the best players or winners of the contest were "Bud" Pearson, Carl Wenzel, Theodore Hanson, and Harper Delplane.

The tournament started today. This means that the winners of the handicap round must give the next grade players fifteen points every other game and must also give to the lowest grade players thirty points on every game.

The other players are: H. G. Turley, W. Thompson, William Sharkey, Herbert Yates, V. C. Heinrich, H. Plebst, F. Lefferts, L. Durkin, Dr. Charles Peet, E. L. Hellwig, F. C. Yokel, E. H. Clark, and A. C. Grady.

STILLMAN-WILSON
WEDDING ARRANGED FOR

"Armed Truce" Prevails Between Members of Two Families

OPEN AIR CEREMONY

GRAND ANSE, Que., July 25 (I.N.S.)—With an "armed truce" prevailing between the members of the two families, final preparations were made today for the open air wedding of James A. ("Bud") Stillman, Jr., son of the former president of the National City Bank, of New York, and Lena Viola Wilson, who was employed formerly in the Stillman home.

Out in the open, under the woodland sky, where, perhaps, her own Indian ancestors joined in tribal rites a century or more ago, Miss Wilson will be married tomorrow to the young millionaire.

Although admitting frankly that there has been friction between the Stillmans and the Wilsons over the wedding arrangements, Bud said he was confident that all would be smoothed out before tomorrow.

"Nobody wants to injure either Lena or me, but if they did, it wouldn't matter," Bud declared. "We love each other and are going to be married anyway."

The Wilsons would have preferred a simple wedding on the financial level of their own class. Mrs. Anne Urquhart Stillman, Bud's mother, who has invited many fashionable friends to the ceremony, insisted on more elaborate preparations, and jealousy and friction threatened the happiness of Bud and Lena.

Bud declared today, however, that Lena would part with her family if they made matters difficult for the boy and girl lovers.

"But she says that will never happen," Bud hastened to add. "The Stillmans want no friction with the Wilsons, and neither do the Wilsons want to break with my family."

Miss Doris Fenton
Hostess To Her Friends

A jolly time was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Fenton, of Pond street, on Friday evening, when their daughter, Miss Doris Fenton, celebrated her tenth birthday anniversary by entertaining her little friends, who were:

Jane and Viola McAuley, Lola McLaughlin, Emily Landreth, Mary Collins, Eleanor Armstrong, Margaret Burns, Grace and Ethel McLaughlin, Margaret and Evelyn Stephenson, Gertrude Hanson, Anita Zimmerman, Ellis Ratcliffe, Jr., Billy Zimmerman, Edward and James Cook, Junior and George McLaughlin, and Geraldine Fenton.

Various games were played and contests enjoyed. In the peanut hunt, Edward Cook was the winner of the first prize and Grace McLaughlin of the second. Margaret Burns won the "black bottom" contest.

A huge Jack Horney pie from which each guest drew a souvenir, was enjoyed by all.

The color scheme of the decorations was blue and yellow, and a large birthday cake bearing ten yellow-colored and lighted candles occupied the center of the table, while at each end of the table stood another birthday cake, one bearing the date of the hostess's birth and the other her name.

The guests departed at a late hour, wishing the hostess many more happy birthdays.

Doris received many lovely gifts as reminders of the occasion.

GREENSBURG, Pa., July 25 (I.N.S.)—Corn in Westmoreland county is in worse condition this year than ever before in the history of the oldest residents, according to reports received in the office of W. L. Treagor, county farm agent.

Farmers making their reports to Treagor said they believed there would be little prospects of the crop reaching maturity this year, due to the coolness of the early summer.

The reports are more encouraging however, as far as potatoes, oats and wheat are concerned. These crops, farmers say, will reach maturity with excellent yields.

CHURCH MUST NOT DICTATE POLITICS

Bishop Stamm Says No Attempt Should Be Made To Write Platform

ASSEMBLY IS CLOSED

PERKASIE, July 25.—Bishop J. S. Stamm, of Napersville, Ill., made two addresses yesterday at the close of the fifth annual summer assembly and school of religious education that has been in session at Perkassie Park since last Monday. The meeting was sponsored by two East Pennsylvania conferences of the Evangelical Church.

This was the largest assembly in the two years. Two hundred and fifty delegates were registered from all sections of the State, as well as sixty-two clergymen.

The Church must not dictate or attempt to write political platforms, nor shall the Church dictate social customs or economical practices, Bishop Stamm said. Fully 1,000 persons were in the auditorium and as many more stood about the pavilion.

"I do not mean to say," he added, "that the Church should not manifest an interest in the civic affairs of the country. The Church and the people of the Church must be thoroughly versed in politics and must wield an influence, at the same time refraining from becoming or attempting to become a factor. Preach and live the Gospel."

The majority of delegates will leave Perkassie today, although this little colony of cottages in Bucks county will not be deserted. Many families live at the park cottages all summer.

It is here that 80 per cent of the hundreds of the reunions of Bucks and Montgomery county families are held. It is estimated that 20,000 persons attend family reunions at the colony from June to October.

The largest family group at the park last year was the player-agers family association reunion, attended by 2,000. It is announced that seventy-five certificates have been awarded to delegates at this year's assembly.

Many families will remain at the park until the opening of the evangelistic camp-meeting in August. The camp-meeting will be at Highland Park, another Bucks county colony, situated in a wooded tract about two miles from Perkassie Park.

New York Prepares
For Big Transit Strike

NEW YORK, July 25 (I.N.S.)—New York began today to mobilize for the threatened subway, elevated and trolley street car strike which has been called for tomorrow evening.

Hope is nearly abandoned that the transportation tie-up can be averted despite the intervention of Mayor Walker and the transit commission.

The municipal department of plants and structures, which operates bus lines, is working out emergency measures and is massing all available buses to cope with the situation.

Taxicab companies are planning to put extra cabs in operation for continuous day and night service.

Thousands of automobile owners are getting ready to turn their machines into temporary taxicabs.

The Interborough Rapid Transit Company and the Brooklyn Manhattan Transit Company will attempt to maintain a skeleton service with strike breakers. Officials of the Association of Street and Electric Railways employees claim that the companies are massing large forces of strike breakers, holding them in nearby cities until the strike gets under way.

Seven-Ton Truck Crashes Into Pole At Foot Of Hill

4 MEN ESCAPE INJURY

HULMEVILLE, July 25.—A seven-ton truck owned by the Wilson-Martin Company, with headquarters at 36th and Grey's Ferry Road, Philadelphia, crashed into a pole at the intersection of Bellevue avenue and Neshaminy street, here, early Saturday morning, spreading several tons of meat about the thoroughfare.

The driver, losing control of the machine as he was descending Bellevue avenue hill, could not right it again upon reaching the curve and the truck upset after breaking the pole in half.

Four men were riding in the vehicle, but only one was injured, he receiving slight cuts about the nose and ear. Traffic was delayed for several hours, owing to a detour being created because of the blocked road.

Two trucks were damaged Saturday shortly after noon, when a collision occurred at the corner of Main street and Reetz avenue. The one, a Ford truck, owned and driven by Samuel J. Hlick, was turning onto Main street, and a larger truck driven by Mr. Mellon, formerly of Main street, this borough, was en route toward the center of town.

None of the occupants of either car were hurt, but the Ford truck was damaged to a great extent.

EPWORTH LEAGUE GROUPS P. O. S. OF A. WILL HOLD
HOLD ANNUAL PICNIC OPEN MEETING HERE

Second Yearly Affair Held At Simpson Grove Grounds
Night To Be Largely Attended

LARGE CROWD ATTENDS ADMISSION BY CARD

TREVOSE, July 25.—The second annual picnic of the North District Epworth League brought approximately 200 people together at Simpson Grove Camp Meeting Ground, here, Saturday afternoon and evening, in spite of the threatening weather.

Games of various types interested the young folks during the afternoon, while at 5:30 a picnic dinner was enjoyed. In the absence of the president of the district, Rev. James J. Bingham, of Oak Lane, the Rev. Alexander Davidson, pastor of the Trevose M. E. Church, was in charge of the program.

The evening program found more people present than during the afternoon, and leagues from Philadelphia, Bensalem, Bristol, Hulmeville, Trevose, New Hope, Langhorne, Lansdowne and Fox Chase were represented.

The Rev. Leon T. Moore, of Philadelphia, who directed the music, spoke at seven o'clock in the auditorium, choosing as his subject "The Value of Young People in the World Today." He likewise favored with a vocal solo.

Having traversed the continent of North America 50 times, the Rev. T. M. Hobson, of California, was very capable of handling the message he chose for the service at 8 o'clock, "Life's Challenge." For years Rev. Hobson has been winning young people for Christian service and Saturday evening he asked that the young people present invest their talents in some form of Christian service, when the way opens.

"Christian work is the highest investment in the world, but whatever your vocation is be an out-and-out Christian," he said, adding: "Don't be a cheap fellow."

The speaker then proceeded to tell the worth of sterling character, and cited cases after case of gain by those who turned their trade or avocation into real service.

The camp meeting, which has been held at the Simpson Grove grounds since July 15th, will end its sessions today.

Hospital Lawn Fete
To Be Given Wednesday

Once again rain interfered with the lawn fete of the Harriman Hospital when on Saturday evening rain drenched the grounds and sent the crowd scurrying for shelter.

The fourth annual lawn fete originally was booked for July 14th, 15th and 16th, but storm on Saturday evening, July 16th, forced a postponement of the event until July 22nd and 23rd.

Saturday evening there were a number of features booked and a crowd breaking all records was anticipated when a shower again drenched the place.

The Ladies' Auxiliary, under whose auspices the affair is held annually, announced today that another attempt will be made this Wednesday evening to stage the fete.

Included in the features booked for Wednesday night will be a greased pig and Della's Serenaders which will furnish the music for the dancing.

All persons having reports to make to the committee are urged to do so at once.

IMPOSE FINE
FOR POLLUTION
OF NESHAMINY

Curley Hill Dairymen's Ass'n Case Is Aired In Court

WATER DISCOLORED

Sinking of Dry Well Failed To Relieve the Condition

DOYLESTOWN, July 25.—Charged with the pollution of a stream leading into the north branch of the Neshaminy Creek, the Curley Hill Dairymen's Association was fined $25 and costs at a hearing before Justice of the Peace Irvin M. James. The prosecution was brought by Colonel James Duffy, chief inspector of the Pennsylvania Department of Health, who testified that he visited the stream into which sewage from the plant seeps and that the water in the creek was found to be discolored and that it had a very offensive odor.

Witnesses for the Commonwealth all testified they found the water polluted and discolored. Louis C. Rufe, a local inspector for the state department, testified he had inspected the place on various occasions and had taken the matter up with the board of directors. It was suggested on previous occasions that the dairymen take home with them from the plant some of the sewage from the creamery in order to have a small quantity to flow into the dry wells and cisterns about the plant. The dairymen, during their testimony, stated that they complied with this suggestion, but that a small portion of the sewage was permitted to remain in the wells for the farmers the following day.

The state department also had suggested to the directors that an additional dry well be sunk across the road from the creamery. Consequently the directors leased a small portion of land from Warren W. Souder and sunk a dry well, but the directors stated that it was not a long time before the pipes leading to the dry well were clogged and that the situation was no better than before the well was built.

Witnesses for the Commonwealth testified that the water in the small stream above the creamery was clear, but just below the creamery it was polluted. They also testified that very offensive odors could be found at the home of Warren W. Souder, through whose property the stream flows, and who also joined the Commonwealth in asking that the nuisance be abated.

Stanley Rapp, president of the association, in defense admitted a seepage from the creamery into the creek, but said that the directors had done all in their power to prevent the nuisance. He testified that a certain portion of the sewage was taken home by the farmers and that an expert from State College had visited the plant and offered suggestions, but that these suggestions did not meet with the approval of the State Department of Health. He further testified that the association has two tanks on the creamery property and one on the Souder property, but that the pipes leading to the latter became clogged.

George G. Gayman, secretary, upon being asked how long the creamery had been in existence, said about 30 years, during which time, to his knowledge, the only person to make complaint of the pollution of the stream was Souder. During the testimony it was learned that the creamery has 27 patrons and five farmers who bring milk to the creamery when the Philadelphia markets are oversupplied with milk.

William H. Stuckert, counsel for the defense, asked the witness how much it would cost to erect a new creamery. The defendant thought approximately $10,000. It was also learned during the testimony of Mr. Gayman that the earnings of the plant last year amounted to $39,724.35, but that the net profit had been small.

Mr. Gayman testified that the board of directors had been making efforts to have the nuisance abated and that blue prints from Pennsylvania State College and Cornell University had been submitted, but that these had been turned down by the department.

The defense was represented by William H. Stuckert and E. Wesley Keeler, while the Commonwealth was represented by Hon. Harman Yerkes.

Thieves Enter Factory
But Fail To Get Loot

Thieves again entered the Peirce & Williams planing mill last night and after making a careful examination departed doing but little damage and with no loot.

Entrance was gained through a window and after going over the office carefully and opening the safes which were unlocked the thieves took a brace and bit and bored holes in the floor and then made a tour of the mill.

AMERICA AND ART

Never was the future of the arts brighter in the United States than at present. There are some who still lament that America is money-mad, commercially fanatical and vulgarly oblivious to all beauty and culture, but they speak from a shell as narrow as that occupied by the maddest scoundrels after the almighty dollar and production records.

It must be remembered that art cannot be indulged in by all of the time. People have their livelihood to make and all cannot make it in the realm of art. If all men, women and children would give a modicum of thought and appreciation to art not for art's sake but for their own enjoyment and edification, the ends of art should be content. The most dangerous thing for the reforming element in art to attempt is to seek to force upon the public the music, the pictures, books, sculpture and thought which they consider in their infinite complacency the public should have and none other. History has shown that given what it wants the public will voluntarily refine its desires.

The important thing of the moment is the supplying of the present unprecedented demand in the United States for music, books, pictures, sculpture and thought. Not all of the one hundred and twenty millions are hungering for the most profound and finest in art, but few are without an appetite for art in some form. There is a general demand for non-fictional literature in magazine and book form; the nation is taking to classical music; good pictures are in demand and art galleries inadequate.

America may eventually become the art center of the world as well as the industrial center if the arts are given the liberty and the patronage they have enjoyed and flourished under abroad.

THE PROSPEROUS FILIPINO

Governor General Wood, here on a vacation and to confer with President Coolidge, says the people in the Philippines are prosperous and happy and that the economic outlook of the island is good.

The picture he draws of the Filipinos is a people than which there is none happier or more contented, untroubled by "red" agitation or labor troubles and rapidly becoming civilized according to the standards of the occident.

There is not an American citizen who is not glad to hear from General Wood that Uncle Sam's wards in the Pacific are free from want and are developing as an industrial and agricultural people. Nothing would please the American people better than to see the Philippines economically as well as politically independent.

There has long been a suspicion here that the discontent of which so much has been said and written lies wholly in the minds of that native minority which is ambitious of taking over the reins of government in the Philippine Islands. General Wood confirms that suspicion.

Enemies of the governor general both here and in the Philippines will say he is whitewashing his own administration.

One might be skeptical if there were no verification of General Wood's report. But verification is not wanting. Favorable reports of the administration in the Philippines have come from many unprejudiced sources, while in virtually every case of adverse criticism there was evidence of bias.

"WHAT EVERY GIRL SHOULD KNOW," with Patsy Ruth Miller, is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS
Mary "Elaine" Sullivan—slender, beautiful, red-headed—is an orphan. Wally Mason, a young reporter, loves Mary. But she disbelieves in love. Mary keeps house for her brothers, David and Bobby. David, the family support, hopes Mary will get safely married. David is sentenced to prison for an auto fatality. The Charity Department takes Bobby. Wally proposes; Mary goes to New York, and gets a cloakroom job in a notorious night club. It is raided. In the morning the owner and dancers are let off with fines and reprimands.

CHAPTER IX—Continued

Joyfully they turned to go. It had been so much less harrowing than they had thought. No mention had been made of Mary, who had watched the proceedings with the beat of her heart sounding loud in her ears. When the others joyfully kissed and tightened their wraps to leave, she too, felt the sudden let-down, the dropping of the weight that had crushed her. She swallowed, and closed her eyes. Well, Well, she thought. What an experience. Mary, walking the high places in a prison cell. She smiled a bit wryly. The feat had been difficult of accomplishment.

The judge leaned back in his high chair, wearily. He placed his spectacles more firmly on his nose, and frowned, "Miss Sullivan."

"Yes?" said Mary, startled. The sudden shock of her name spoken with such easy familiarity in surroundings such as these brought her hand to her heart. He had addressed none of the others by name. She felt the weight again, as though it had been lowered with a vicious jerk by unsympathetic hands from above.

"You will please remain, Miss

The court matron placed a strong arm under her elbow when she sank

Sullivan." The strange glances of the girls as they passed through the double doors, hurt her. They were thinking—what were they thinking? That Mary had been the cause of this, perhaps? The doors closed behind Bessie, who waved a taunting good-bye.

The inquisition of the judge. She was Mary Sullivan, formerly of Garden City, was she not? Yes, oh yes.

Mary Sullivan, whose brother, David Sullivan, had been sent up for manslaughter? Yes. The fearlessness of Mary's eyes as they held those of the judge. The mention of David acted as a buoy.

"I have examined your case Mary Sullivan. I have concluded that owing to the unfortunate happenings that have taken place in your young life and considering the influences under which you are bound to react because of your extreme youth, it would be wisest and best for you to be placed in an institution such as the St. Mary's Home for Working Girls. There you will receive the care proper for one in your position and tender years."

Fortunately the court matron was standing behind Mary when the sentence was uttered. She placed a strong arm under her elbow when she sank. "It's all right," whispered Mary. "I shan't fail."

Nevertheless her hand grasped the matron's arm as she was led from the court-room.

"You're leaving for the Home this afternoon," said the matron kindly. Mary looked so pitifully young there in the strong light from the high barred windows. "Would you like something to eat now to keep your strength up?"

"No," said Mary.

"Just a little cup of tea my dear. It will hearten you up wonderfully. Do. I've discovered that a hot cup of tea during the heaviest part of my day, it doesn't matter how heavy, will just make the blood flow again. Do. Just a little cup of tea. I've some on the burner now."

"No," said Mary.

PITTSBURGH, July 25 (I.N.S.)—Steel production in the Pittsburgh metropolitan area averages only about 65 per cent. capacity at present, but representatives of the steel and iron trade confidently expect the output of the current year to equal that of 1926, a banner year.

Structural steel orders were reported as falling below those of last year, but with a revival of the industry expected in August with a flood of orders from automotive trade, business will be on the upgrade. The market remains quiet with prices lower.

Fall always brings a rush for structural steel, the industry representatives explained, making prospects for the three months far from disheartening.

INDIANA, Pa., July 25 (I.N.S.)—A survey of the consumer demand for bread is being made here and in thirteen other cities of Pennsylvania by the Department of Agriculture of Pennsylvania. The survey is being made by a group of students from the Pennsylvania State College under the direction of H. A. Hanneman of the Bureau of Markets and the county agents in the various cities.

The survey is intended to disclose the quantity of bread consumed in households, varieties purchased, frequency of consumption at different meals and by the separate members of the family, reasons why bread is or is not eaten, substitutes for bread and whether the consumption has increased in the last two years.

PITTSBURGH, July 25 (I.N.S.)—Federal courts here disposed of 1,307 cases in the last fiscal year, imposing fines totalling $178,071. U. S. District Attorney John D. Neyer announced. The previous year, 967 cases were handled. A majority of the cases now occupying the Federal Court's attention grow out of liquor law violations, Meyer reported.

AMBRIDGE, Pa., July 25 (I.N.S.)—Despite the fact he has fourteen surgeon's stitches in his heart, Cornelius Jackson, 20, is reported recovering from a bullet wound in his heart. Dr. W. O. Bullock, a physician here, operated on the youth immediately following the wounding, and is believed to have been successful.

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 25 (I.N.S.)—After a series of conferences regarding hatchery sites at Reynoldsville and Tionesta, the Board of Fish Commissioners today announced their decision to proceed at once on the latter project. Because of the amount of money available at the present time only one of the sites can be developed in the immediate future.

The main point which caused the decision was the fact that at Tionesta all species of fish can be propagated while at Reynoldsville only trout raising will be possible.

—Mrs. G. B. West, of 411 Jefferson avenue, has returned to her home, following a month's visit to her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Stepler, of Chambersburg, Pa. Mrs. West's grandsons, Ned and Walter Stepler, came to Bristol with her to remain for a fortnight at their parents' home.

can be controlled by means far cheaper and better than by using genarol or other sprays, or by using baited traps. Moreover, the means of control I have to offer—means officially endorsed—at the same time control the European cornborer, now spreading over the territory infested by the Japanese beetle. If interested in efficient control of the Japanese beetle, or the European cornborer, or the codling-moth, the oriental peach moth, maggots, borers, or any truck crop, farm, orchard or timber insect, cut this out, mark what insects you are especially interested in and instructive free literature will be sent you. RIVERSIDE THEATRE

Louise Fazenda again appears in a comedy character role such as won her the great popularity of her early comedy days in Warner Bros. production of "Finger Prints," directed by Lloyd Bacon, which comes to the Riverside Theatre tonight and will be shown again tomorrow evening.

Although similar to the pig-tailed Swedish servant girl of earlier days, this later character is different and decidedly more piquant. There is nothing slap-sticky or exaggerated.

In Rumpus

Nomination of Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick (above) as honorary vice-president of the Chicago Chapter of the League of American Penwomen resulted in the resignation of Mrs. Henry R. Rathbone as State vice-president of the league. Mrs. Rathbone charged that Mrs. McCormick was using her wealth and social position to win honor and credit in the league, but failed to do any work.

(International Illustrated News)

about it, Miss Fazenda achieving her ludicrous effect by wearing perfectly proper things not suited to her.

For instance, she skins her hair back into a knot on the back of her head and dons a tiny triangular dolly such as English servants wear on their heads. She wears small-checked gingham dress and apron of contrasting colors which make her shoulders and hips look large and rangy. Too tight sleeves and high-laced pointed black shoes contribute to the effect, the latter contrasting with the white cotton stockings.

Nothing unusual or freaky in this costume and yet in it Miss Fazenda achieves the humorous heights of her career. John T. Murray plays a sympathetic masculine lead as the nick sheriff and he too follows much the same rule in his dress.

Mme. Cavallieri Issues Marriage Warning

ROME, July 25 (I.N.S.)—Mme. Lina Cavallieri, former grand opera singer and called formerly one of the world's most beautiful women, believes that marriages between persons of artistic temperament usually end upon the rocks.

"I am glad to be free again," declared Mme. Cavallieri today. Referring to her recent divorce from Lucien Muratore in Paris. "Artists' marriages are seldom successful even when, as in my case, one withdrew from the stage limelight to help the success of the other."

"But anyway I feel that I did my duty to the end even though misunderstanding engulfed us. When Lucien left me I had only one choice—divorce. I am in Rome only upon a business mission. My residence will remain in Paris.

"I am delighted to visit my native country, since I am an enthusiastic Fascist and devoted to the Duce (Mussolini), whom I admire, although we never have met."

Mme. Cavallieri is still radiantly attractive although saddened by the melancholy conclusion of her latest matrimonial venture.

—Mrs. Mark Morgan and son, Teddy, of Wynnewood, Pa., was a visitor last week at the home of Mrs. Morgan's father, Mr. George Husey, of Dorance street.

SACRED SHRINES SHAKEN BY EARTHQUAKE

Relief is being rushed to victims of a series of earthquakes that rocked Jerusalem, killing many and damaging sacred shrines. The tomb of the Saviour was damaged, the Palace Hotel at Jericho collapsed, and the Government House on the Mount of Olives suffered from shock. Picture is a view of the holy city.

THIS, DEMPSEY SAYS, IS WHERE THAT DISPUTED WALLOP LANDED

Where that disputed blow landed on Sharkey, according to Dempsey, who is shown applying it to his manager, Leo Flynn. However, some fight critics assert the wallop was lower than this, and foul. Others support Dempsey's claim. Foul or fair? Try to decide.

(International Illustrated News)

Motion pictures of the Dempsey-Sharkey fight have failed to settle the controversy over the next to the last blow struck by the ex-champion. Here's a sequence from the fight film, showing Dempsey administering the disputed blow. Was it foul or fair? You decide.

"RED HEAD"

A fiery romance and enthralling mystery

BY EDGAR WALLACE

Why was she required to sit in a show-window dressed in green and why was she shadowed wherever she went?

Red Head, The Bulletin's new serial, is the story of a beautiful red haired actress, a sinister doctor, an impoverished but dauntless English lord, an enterprising American newspaper man and a mysterious secret society.

It is one of the most startling mystery stories and has a plot you can't fathom until the end.
